Global

• Global M&A fell just short of previous years, as uncertainty appeared to take its toll on investments. M&A dipped 3.2% by value to US$ 3.15tn (18,433 deals) in comparison to 2016 (US$ 3.26tn, 18,592 deals), while deal count dropped by only 205 from the 2016 record. This marks the fourth consecutive year in which M&A has broken the US$ 3tn barrier. The year ended on a high with December seeing the largest monthly total of the year with US$ 427.5bn. There were five megadeals (> US$ 10bn) in the final month, including the two largest deals of the year – Disney acquiring Fox's entertainment assets for US$ 68.4bn and the US$ 67.8bn tie-up between CVS and Aetna. December saw the highest monthly number of megadeals in 2017 and the largest by combined value with US$ 189.1bn. The last month at this level was back in July 2016 which saw six megadeals worth US$ 108.9bn.

• Cross-border activity has once again been a key component of M&A in 2017, despite seeing a slight reduction in the number and value of such deals. In 2017, there were 6,459 cross-border deals worth US$ 1.32tn, a 1.3% drop compared to 2016 (US$ 1.33tn). However, while cross-border M&A has reduced in terms of raw numbers, its share as a percentage of global M&A in 2017 stood at 41.9% by value, the second highest since the financial crisis, and 35.1% by deal count, the highest such figure since 2011 (35.4%). As confidence wanes in various regions it appears that dealmakers are pursuing a strategy of spreading risk, over consolidating within home markets, despite the global geopolitical uncertainty. Looking at the largest acquisitions of the year, seven of the top ten deals announced were cross-border, the largest being British American Tobacco's US$ 59bn takeover of Reynolds American.

• While the US remained the most targeted area globally by value, following 5,326 deals worth US$ 1.26tn, it saw its influence on global M&A reduce in 2017 due to a resurgent Europe. In 2017 the US accounted for a 40.2% share of the global value, the lowest percentage since 2012 (37.6%), a decline from the 45.5% in 2016 and the second consecutive decrease. Meanwhile Europe saw a second successive growth to 29.6% in 2017, up from 25% and 23.1% in 2016 and 2015 respectively. As the region's GDP has risen and confidence in the market appeared to increase, M&A figures have mirrored this rise, more specifically with a hike in deals between countries within the Eurozone. This was noticeable on three of the top five deals targeting Europe over the year. Asia Pacific (excl. Japan) has remained steady in 2017, hitting 21.4% of global M&A, with China representing the vast majority of the region's activity, at 49.1% by value.

• The next wave of technology is driving M&A across all sectors as people change the way they consume media, products and services. The Technology sector hit its highest annual deal count on Mergermarket record (since 2001), up to 2,569, as investors looked towards the latest developments in the industry, such as IoT, autonomous vehicles and blockchain. Consumer was one of the few sectors to increase in value as a result of a number of high-profile deals – particularly in H1. The year saw acquisitions of Reynolds America, Luxottica and Whole Foods, with a total of six takeovers worth over US$ 10bn – compared to just one such deal in 2016. Energy, Mining & Utilities remained the most targeted sector by value, with 1,541 deals worth US$ 543bn, despite a 7.7% reduction compared to 2016 (US$ 588.3bn), following 24 deals above the US$ 5bn mark.

Europe

• As the continent posted stronger economic figures, European M&A diverged from the global trend – increasing 14% by value in comparison to 2016 (US$ 815.4bn). The economic recovery in Europe, with improving GDP and employment figures, has helped push European M&A to a post-crisis high of US$ 929.3bn across 7,235 deals. The year's value accounted for a 29.6% share of global M&A – the highest such figure since 2012 when Europe represented a 31.4% share of activity. The region's average value reached its highest point on Mergermarket record (since 2001) at US$ 390.8m, surpassing the US$ 386.1m in 2007. A clear reason for this increase in Europe is the fact that the continent has seen an uptick in megadeals, receiving the largest number of deals over US$ 10bn since 2008 (12 deals). In 2017, there were 11 announcements of megadeals in Europe, worth a combined US$ 254.2bn.

• The Eurozone has been key to the increase in European M&A, with the bloc accounting for a 54.3% of the whole continent's value following 3,846 deals worth US$ 504.5bn. This represents the second largest value for the Eurozone since the crash. The year started among uncertainty, with various populist threats across the continent amid several elections. However, with the elections mostly returning more stable candidates and confidence in the market growing after a slow recovery, the M&A market has similarly picked up. Away from the Eurozone, the Nordics saw a growing influence in 2017, with 1,040 deals worth US$ 111.3bn announced, the second highest value on Mergermarket record. This represents a 12.7% share of European M&A – the highest on Mergermarket record.

• Private equity buyout activity went from strength to strength in 2017, reaching its highest value and deal count since the financial crisis, surpassing 2014's figure of US$ 143.8bn. Over the last 12 months there were 1,388 buyouts targeting European assets, worth a total US$ 158.4bn, 25.9% higher than the equivalent value in 2016, with deal count also increasing (US$ 125.8bn, 1,286 deals). Buyouts represented a 17% share in the total European M&A value – the highest annual share of M&A since 2007. As competition became more intense, the size of buyouts similarly grew as private equity firms looked towards larger targets and take-private deals. The largest buyout of the year saw the long-awaited acquisition of Unilever's spreads business by KKR for US$ 8bn, making this the second largest buyout in Europe since the financial crisis.

• Industrials & Chemicals has been the most active sector by both value and deal count in Europe in 2017, hitting US$ 147.3bn across 1,453 deals announced. Following takeovers of Linde (US$ 45.5bn) and Siemens' mobility business (US$ 8.7bn), the sector hit its second highest post-crisis value, only behind the US$ 165.7bn (1,487 deals) seen in 2016. Traditionally the country's strong point, Germany accounted for a 60% share of the sector's dealmaking in Europe – the highest percentage for the country on Mergermarket record. Simultaneously, several big-ticket Consumer deals in the first half of 2017 pushed the sector's value over double the equivalent 2016 figure (US$ 53.6bn). Takeovers of Luxottica, Christian Dior and Unilever's spreads division left the sector totalling US$ 120.5bn across 927 deals. This led to only the second time since the financial crash that the sector breached the US$ 100bn barrier, following 2015's US$ 204.3bn – largely as a result of the US$ 122.8bn deal between AB InBev and SABMiller.

US

- US M&A saw US$ 1.3tn worth of deals announced in 2017, with a total of 5,326 transactions reaching the signing table. This was the second consecutive year of decreases in overall value since the record highs of 2015, at the end of which interest rates, effectively zero since 2008, had finally begun to rise slightly. As the economy continues to move on from the financial crisis, inflation has remained low, and further increases in the federal funds rate are expected in 2018 following three gradual raises in 2017. Further, Congress' recently passed tax legislation, which included a sizeable cut to the US corporate tax rate, has fueled anticipation over how future tax savings might be spent over the next several years, particularly with regard to M&A. US dealmaking therefore, while still cautious in today's political climate, has continued at a steady pace.
- Despite coming under fire from the political arena, Media M&A continued to feel pressure from industry challengers such as Netflix to consolidate in order to survive in an age of digital streaming. The sector saw US$ 103bn worth of deals, its second-highest total value behind 2016's peak of US$ 133.3bn, though most of the latter had been due to the US$ 105bn AT&T/Time Warner transaction, whose fate remains unclear after a block by the Justice Department in November. However, such events did not prevent Disney from announcing that it had signed an agreement to acquire most of Twentieth-Century Fox for US$ 68.4bn, which then became the largest deal of 2017.
- Political issues had an effect on another space that had peaked in 2016 – Chinese bids for US firms. After reaching a record US$ 56.7bn and 75 transactions, 2017 saw an 81.1% fall in value to US$ 10.7bn with 11 fewer transactions for a total of 64 buys of US companies. Multiple blocks by the Committee on Foreign Investment in the US (CFIUS) in 2017 have led would-be acquirers in China to rethink their strategies in the US. According to Mergermarket intelligence, unhappy with being labeled national security risks, dealmakers have begun to consider avoiding US deals, with the potential for Tech investments to be especially vulnerable to such shifts and with Chinese companies now starting to look for targets elsewhere.

- Meanwhile, US Technology in the age of Amazon did take center stage in 2017, reaching a record deal count of 1,015 transactions, with its disruptive effects rippling across various sectors including Consumer; Pharma, Medical & Biotech; and Media. Most notably, Computer Software was one of only a few spaces where deal count actually rose in 2017, unlike in the general global trend; in fact, the sub-sector set a record in 2017 with 771 transactions, even while disclosed values were down 44.7% to US$ 64.2bn from 2016. By value, Energy, Mining & Utilities (EMU) was 2017's top sector, recording US$ 260bn and 436 transactions. Though this represented a 20.6% fall in value compared to 2016's record high of US$ 327.3bn, overall 2017's total was the third-highest on Mergermarket record (since 2001), as was deal count. Of particular note has been growing investment in the Utilities space – though accounting for just 16.8% of EMU's total value, the sub-sector reached a record value of US$ 43.7bn, with more activity poised for 2018 given recent shifts by oil majors away from oil and gas and more toward electricity.

Latin America

- Latin American M&A was on par with total deal values over the last two years, reaching US$ 80.1bn with 583 deals announced in 2017. This was an increase in value by 3.6% though with two fewer deals compared to 2016 (US$ 77.3bn, 585 deals). Much of the region's dealmaking continued to be driven by activity in key sectors such as Energy, Mining & Utilities (EMU) and an uptick in certain sectors to watch in 2018, such as Agriculture and Leisure.
- Inbound activity, while down by 5.3% in value compared to 2016, was responsible for 61.6% of M&A in Latin America, recording US$ 49.3bn with 318 transactions. Of this, 18.9% of inbound value was due to bids from Chinese firms, which saw an increase in deal count in 2017 to a record 12 transactions, although total value decreased to US$ 9.3bn. Interest in Latin America's EMU assets, particularly in electricity, has been growing, with five inbound deals worth a total of US$ 7.6bn announced, and more expected in 2018. In fact, overall by both cross-border and domestic activity, EMU continued to be the region's dominant sector in the past year, registering a total of US$ 26.5bn and 116 transactions. Though this was a decrease in value by 33.4% compared to the previous year (US$ 39.8bn), deal count set a new record. Notably, 12.7% of EMU's activity was due to Canadian investments, worth a total of US$ 3.3bn, with deal count also seeing a record of 34 transactions, nearly 3x the number in 2016. In particular, Canadian investments in Chile have skyrocketed with six EMU deals. A number of Chilean Mining deals were for assets such as lithium, copper, and gold.

- According to Mergermarket intelligence, Agriculture sector assets are expected to attract investors in 2018, despite impending NAFTA renegotiations between Mexico and the US. In 2017, Latin American agricultural M&A saw US$ 2bn worth of transactions and 18 deals, up in value by 160.1% with four more deals than in 2016 (US$ 786m, 14 deals). Family-owned businesses are especially eager to enter the M&A market, along with dealmakers who are keen to see transactions through before a wave of regional elections, due to take place in 2018. Another space to watch is Leisure. The sector saw US$ 985m and 26 deals in 2017, a 145.6% increase in value with seven more deals over 2016 (US$ 401m, 19 deals). Tourism industry investments are anticipated to increase in 2018 as the region attempts to move past the political and economic turmoil of the last couple of years caused amongst others by corruption and the downturn in global commodities markets. Of the sector's total value, 47.4% came from the top two deals, both resort and casino transactions – US-based Advent International's US$ 287m bid for Chile-based Enjoy, and the latter's US$ 180m bid for a 55% stake in Uruguay-based Punta del Este Conrad.

The Advent/Enjoy deal underlines the growing presence of private equity firms in Latin America. Buyouts reached a record in the region by deal count – 69 transactions and a total disclosed deal value of US$ 6.7bn. The largest of these was UK-based Actis' US$ 1.3bn bid for the Mexican assets of US power and utilities firm InterGen. Fittingly, the transaction, announced at the tail end of 2017, was a blend of cross-border dealmaking in the Utilities sector driven by private equity interest, which appears to be a potential signal of what to expect more of in 2018.

"The Advent/Enjoy deal underlines the growing presence of private equity firms in Latin America. As a blend of cross-border dealmaking driven by PE interest, it could be a signal for activity in 2018."

Asia Pacific (excl. Japan)

• In contrast to the global M&A figures, Asia-Pacific (excl. Japan) climbed slightly – up 4.8% by value with six more deals compared to 2016 (US$ 642.9bn, 3,744 deals) following 3,750 deals valued at US$ 673.5bn. The overall value reached its second highest point on Mergermarket record (since 2001), highlighting Asia-Pacific as an attractive market for dealmaking. The region received four megadeals (> US$ 10bn) over the last 12 months, with two announced in the final quarter of the year including the US$ 24.6bn acquisition of Australia-based retail property group Westfield Corporation by Unibail-Rodamco, the France-based commercial property operator – Asia Pacific's largest deal in 2017. Overall Australian M&A reached a 12.8% share of the region's dealmaking in 2017 with 579 deals worth US$ 86.1bn, up 30.7% by value compared to 2016.

• The Real Estate sector experienced a strong fourth quarter within the region, following 60 transactions worth a total US$ 71.2bn. This is largely due to the aforementioned Unibail-Rodamco US$ 24.6bn acquisition of Westfield, and the US$ 21.2bn spin off of The Wharf Holdings' Hong Kong-based property investment business. Overall, the sector saw a 2.9x increase by value in 2017 in comparison to 2016, when 113 deals took place worth US$ 41.4bn. Over the last 12 months the sector recorded 184 deals worth US$ 121.7bn. Six deals worth more than US$ 5bn buoyed this total, making it the top sector of the year. Consumer was another highlight in the region. The sector accounted for 386 deals worth US$ 63.3bn in 2017, a 71.8% increase on 2016. South Korea, with 57 deals worth US$ 10.4bn, became the second most-active country regarding both Consumer deal value and count after China (US$ 21.1bn, 111 deals), accounting for a 16.4% share of the region's Consumer M&A activity. The sector was ranked top in South Korea, with a 3.2x value increase compared to 2016.

• Inbound activity intensified in 2017, up 21.9% by value compared to the year before (US$ 88.3bn, 585 deals) with 603 deals worth US$ 107.6bn, marking the highest value on Mergermarket record. Australia remained the most targeted country within the region in terms of both inbound deal count and value with the country recording 176 deals worth a combined US$ 41bn. On the other hand, Asia-Pacific (excl. Japan) outbound acquisitions experienced a sharp 54.1% drop by deal value as a consequence of Chinese authorities heavily regulating the amount of capital invested outside of its shores. While raw numbers appear to indicate that efforts to tame Chinese spending overseas may have slowed investment, sentiment to spend outside of its borders remains strong among China-based financiers, according to Mergermarket intelligence. China is now urging companies to restrict overseas investments, or only to look outbound if business-critical, with companies having to stress the returns it will bring back to China to gain the greenlight from regulators.

• Private equity investment in the region stood at US$ 122.7bn across 445 deals in 2017, a 37.7% increase by value compared to 2016 (US$ 89.1bn, 393 deals). The value hit the highest annual value on Mergermarket record due to one megadeal – the US$ 15.9bn buyout of Singapore-based Global Logistic Properties by a consortium led by China Vanke and HOPU Logistics Investment. China continues to lead the region in terms of deal count and value, recording 131 buyouts valued at US$ 49.8bn in 2017, including the 14.11% stake acquisition of Hengda Real Estate for US$ 9bn by an investor group including Shandong Highway, Ding Xiang Capital, Guangzhou Yehoo Investment, and Jiayu Vehicle Accessories Ningxia among others.

Japan

• At the end of 2017, overall M&A activity targeting Japan recorded a total deal value of US$ 40.1bn over 458 transactions, a 36.4% decline in value with only three fewer deals compared to 2016 (USD$ 63bn, 461 deals). This dip in value can be attributed to Japan's domestic M&A activity, which saw a sharp drop of 64.2% to US$ 18.8bn (414 deals) with just one deal fewer than a year earlier, mainly due to an absence of blockbuster deals, with those above US$ 1bn seeing a clear decline. In 2016, there were 11 domestic deals above US$1bn totalling US$ 32.9bn, which by itself exceeded the total deal value of domestic deals in 2017.

• Private equity activity continued to gain interest in Japan, following years of skepticism. Total buyouts in 2017 reached US$ 16.1bn, the highest deal value on Mergermarket record (since 2001) and a 2.1x increase compared to 2016's deal value of US$ 7.7bn. This increase in value can be attributed to several big ticket transactions, including Bain Capital-led consortium's US$ 10.6bn 59.8% stake acquisition of Toshiba Memory. The three largest buyouts in 2017 accounted for approximately 80% of Japan-targeted PE buyout value. According to Mergermarket intelligence, the increase in large-cap investments can be accredited to the growing focus on corporate governance, family succession issues, and a higher valuation environment. Buyouts of Japanese companies are expected to see continued growth, especially if a major MBO creates a knock-on effect for other management teams to acquire Japanese targets. Similarly, private equity exits also saw an increase in deal value compared to the previous year, with a total US$ 4.0bn over 41 deals. This can be attributed to the US$ 2.3bn sale of theme park operator USJ by MBK Partners and Goldman Sachs' private equity arm, which by itself exceeded 2016's total private equity exit value of US$ 2.1bn over 36 deals.

• Inbound M&A into Japan scaled new heights over the last 12 months, marking the highest deal value since 2008. A total of US$ 21.3bn inbound activity across 44 announced transactions more than doubled the inbound value of 2016 (US$ 10.5bn, 46 deals) becoming only the second time in Mergermarket history in which the Japan-targeted inbound deal value exceeded domestic deal value, with the previous occurrence in 2001. The US was the most active source of inbound investment by both deal value and count, with 14 deals worth US$ 18.4bn, contributing 86.6% of total Japanese inbound value. All top five inbound deals were generated by US bidders, including Key Safety Systems' US$1.6bn acquisition of Takata Corporation, which took place in Q4 2017.

• On the other hand, Japan outbound witnessed a downturn in H2 2017 after experiencing a strong first half of the year. On the whole, a total of 336 outbound transactions were announced in 2017 worth US$ 59.1bn, a drop of 36.7% by value with 12 more deals compared to 2016 (US$93.4bn, 324 deals). In Q4 alone, 71 transactions worth US$ 6.7bn were recorded, the lowest quarter in terms of deal value in the past decade. The US was still the most popular region for Japanese dealmakers by both count and value with 107 deals worth US$ 29.2bn. Apart from eyeing opportunities in mature markets, Japanese investors also showed interest in Asian markets, with a particular focus on China, India and Indonesia, investing US$ 19.1bn across 113 deals, accounting for 32.3% of total outbound deal value and up 2.7x by value compared to 2016 (US$ 7.1bn, 102 deals).

Middle East & Africa

• M&A targeting the Middle East & Africa (MEA) failed to reach the record heights set in 2016, with dealmaking in the region totalling US$ 59.4bn across 411 deals in the last 12 months. This represents a 34.2% decrease by value in comparison to 2016's record US$ 90.3bn (449 deals). This reduction can be attributed to a lack of big-ticket deals, which became prominent in the region in 2016. There were nine deals worth over US$ 1bn in 2017 totalling US$ 29.2bn, compared to 20 breaching the US$ 1bn barrier previous year, at a combined value of US$ 62.4bn. The Middle East accounted for a 64.6% share of activity in MEA by value as a result of the US$ 15bn takeover of Israeli autonomous vehicles firm Mobileye by Intel, the largest deal in the region in 2017.

• As a result of the Mobileye takeover, Israel was the most targeted country by both value and deal count in the region following 102 deals worth US$ 24bn, reaching the country's highest annual value on Mergermarket record (since 2001). The value represented a 24.6% on 2016's figure of US$ 19.2bn (100 deals), the previous record seen in the country with two more deals. Israel's pursuit to develop the latest advancements in technology has influenced dealmakers, with the country recording its highest annual deal count on Mergermarket record. Amid political uncertainty surrounding the country, South African M&A has suffered in 2017, dipping to its lowest value since 2003 (US$ 4.2bn). The country received 101 deals worth US$ 6.2bn, a 70.2% decrease by value with 39 fewer deals.

• Inbound M&A targeting MEA has reached the third highest value on Mergermarket record, with 197 deals worth US$ 40.1bn. The figure seen in 2017 stood only behind the 2007 and 2016 records of US$ 43.1bn and US$ 49.1bn, respectively. Inbound M&A therefore represented a 67.4% share of total M&A targeting MEA, up from 54.3% the previous year, and the second highest percentage on Mergermarket record. The US was the key investor into the region with 51 deals worth US$ 25.6bn, the largest amount invested by the US into the region on Mergermarket record. This became the third successive year in which the US has been involved in over 50 transactions in the Middle East and Africa. Even excluding Intel's takeover of Mobileye, 2017's figure would stand second only behind 2013 (US$ 11.2bn, 49 deals). Three-quarters of this investment has targeted the Middle East by deal count, with 38 deals worth US$ 20.9bn – including National Energy Services Reunited Corporation's US$ 1.1bn takeover of Gulf Energy SOAC and National Petroleum Services, announced in November.

• Industrials & Chemicals, thanks to the aforementioned Mobileye acquisition, reached its highest annual value in the region on Mergermarket record with 50 deals worth a total US$ 21.5bn. This surpassed the previous record seen in 2012 when US$ 12.4bn changed hands across 68 deals. Energy, Mining & Utilities (EMU) reached a post-crisis deal count high, with 74 deals worth US$ 12.2bn announced in 2017. This represents the second highest deal count for the sector on Mergermarket record, only behind that of 2007, which saw 83 deals. EMU was the largest sector by deal count across the Middle East & Africa, ahead of Technology which saw 51 deals worth US$ 4bn.

"Israel's pursuit of the latest developments in technology has influenced dealmakers, with the country also seeing its highest annual deal count on Mergermarket record"
